

ELIZABETH KENDALL

Elizabeth Kendall relies on the change brought about when one physical agent meets another to create original sculptures from clay. It's that sort of reaction she's hoping is in store for women, people of color, or anyone who feels separate or unseen. "When silica meets clay or clay meets glaze or even process meets idea, each influences the other, sometimes in unexpected and amazing ways," Elizabeth notes. Components come together to create something new.

* Maryland Federation of Art, Standards for Excellence, Former Board Member and Chairman

* "Clay on the Bay" - creator and instructor

In much the same way, the Board President and Executive Director of the SoCo Arts Lab believes when people of different backgrounds come together, they bring along the gift of enrichment. Elizabeth is also the owner of Kendall Creative Change where she facilitates artistically inspired individual and organizational transformation. She maintains a studio in the lower level of the Arts Lab where she mentors new artists and works on her own art which has shown at venues locally and around the world.
